Changing Conversations

How are organizations changing conversations internally?

Susan Sherman, City of Olathe
Hannes Zacharias, Johnson County
Diane Stoddard, City of Lawrence

April 17, 2015
New Employees (2 years or less)

1. What have you experienced (in prior work environments) that encouraged innovation and employee engagement in the workplace?
2. What have been some of the barriers to innovation and engagement that you have experienced in other work environments?
3. What tweaks or new ideas could make us even better? What opportunities are we not capturing?
4. Would you recommend the City of Olathe as a great place to work to your best friend?
CROUCHING TIGER
HIDDEN DRAGON
SUPERVISOR SUMMIT I & II
The Chinese Symbol for Crouching Tiger, Hidden Dragon

Means undiscovered or concealed talents or experts - YOU!
Why Are We Here?

- Innovative and learning organization
- Cross organizational conversations
- Our primary goal for today is to practice how we are going to grow the learning culture we desire
Emerging Issues

The lurking potential dangers and early warning signs of changing circumstances that are most likely to significantly impact our City within the next two to three years.
The word crisis written in Chinese is composed of two characters:
- Danger
- Opportunity

What if we viewed emerging issues as an opportunity instead of a problem? How might that change our level of engagement and our ability to address the issues?
What’s Next?

- Gap Summit
- Continued Discussion of Emerging Issues
- Innovation Grant
- Electronic Sandbox